From Don Reinhold, Wichita Symphony Society CEO

My first wish is that everyone remains in good health. In this time of great unknowns and uncertainty, information and events are coming at warp speed. Where we are today would have been unimaginable just a week ago.

As you might have deduced from the statewide public gathering ban of groups in excess of fifty that currently extends for eight weeks in Kansas, the Wichita Symphony must postpone the remainder of our 2019 - 2020 season.

In addition to last weekend's concerts of Ravel and Brahms, we are now postponing The Rose of Sonora (April 4 and 5), Apollo 13 In Concert (April 18), and Kristin Chenoweth In Concert (May 16).

Our thoughts are with all of you, but especially with our Wichita Symphony musicians who have lost work, performances, and teaching opportunities during this challenging time.

I emphasize that concerts are postponed and not canceled. It is premature to say when these concerts will be rescheduled. We are exploring all options, and remain optimistic that we will be back to performing extraordinary and beautiful music before too long.

Until we understand those possibilities, we ask that you hold onto your tickets, which will remain valid for the rescheduled concerts. We will be in touch shortly with more details and your ticket options. We appreciate your patience during this process.

Box Office Information

We are still renewing season tickets for the 2020-2021 season. Century II is currently closed to the public for walk-in traffic, but you can reach Symphony staff by calling (316) 267-7658. Because this is a rapidly evolving situation, we ask that you monitor our contact page for our most up-to-date Box Office hours.

Our promise to you is to keep you informed. Watch your email and social media for updates and opportunities where we can share our love for music in the digital space for now. Until we gather in Century II once again, stay well and be safe. And thank you for your patronage.

Sincerely,

Don Reinhold
